

Breaking News: NAACP Founded, A New Era of Equality is Among Us!

In 1909, social reformers including W.E.B. Du Bois, Ida B. Wells, and Henry Moskowitz founded the NAACP, advocating civil rights for all, including Jewish communities. The NAACP achieved significant milestones, such as overturning voter restrictions and fighting residential segregation. Additionally, they secured the right for African Americans to serve as military officers during World War I.

During the early 1900s, African Americans migrated from the rural South to northern cities like New York, Detroit, and Chicago, seeking opportunities and escaping racial violence. This Great Migration increased the black population in urban areas and turned these cities into hotspots for civil rights activism, fueling the movement for equality.
